

N4U

Heral-4

N4U

Heral-4

N4U

Heral-4

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1995. The public sector has become an important employer of people with mental health problems.

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the mental health of people in the public sector. The Department of Health (1995) has published a strategy for mental health care, which includes a commitment to improve the mental health of people in the public sector. The strategy states that 'the mental health of people in the public sector should be a priority for all public sector employers'.

The Department of Health (1995) also states that 'the mental health of people in the public sector should be a priority for all public sector employers'. This is a commitment that all public sector employers should take seriously. It is a commitment that should be reflected in the way that public sector employers manage their employees.

The Department of Health (1995) also states that 'the mental health of people in the public sector should be a priority for all public sector employers'. This is a commitment that all public sector employers should take seriously. It is a commitment that should be reflected in the way that public sector employers manage their employees.

The Department of Health (1995) also states that 'the mental health of people in the public sector should be a priority for all public sector employers'. This is a commitment that all public sector employers should take seriously. It is a commitment that should be reflected in the way that public sector employers manage their employees.

The Department of Health (1995) also states that 'the mental health of people in the public sector should be a priority for all public sector employers'. This is a commitment that all public sector employers should take seriously. It is a commitment that should be reflected in the way that public sector employers manage their employees.

The Department of Health (1995) also states that 'the mental health of people in the public sector should be a priority for all public sector employers'. This is a commitment that all public sector employers should take seriously. It is a commitment that should be reflected in the way that public sector employers manage their employees.

The Department of Health (1995) also states that 'the mental health of people in the public sector should be a priority for all public sector employers'. This is a commitment that all public sector employers should take seriously. It is a commitment that should be reflected in the way that public sector employers manage their employees.

The Department of Health (1995) also states that 'the mental health of people in the public sector should be a priority for all public sector employers'. This is a commitment that all public sector employers should take seriously. It is a commitment that should be reflected in the way that public sector employers manage their employees.

(Photography, Design & Print)
DIVYA DIGITAL IMAGING
divyadigitalimaging@gmail.com

*Complimentary copy/Not for sale