*A sari is a drape and a women's garment in the Indian subcontinent.

It consists of an un-stitched stretch of woven fabric arranged over the body as a dress, with one end attached to the waist, while the other end rests over one shoulder as a stole, sometimes baring a part of the midri. It may vary from 4.1 to 8.2 metres (4.5 to 9 yards) in length in breadth, and is a form of ethnic wear in Bangladesh, India, Sri Lanka, Nepal etc.

There are various names and styles of sari manufacture and draping, the most common being the Nivi style. The sari is worn with a fitted bodice also called a choli (ravike or kuppasa in southern India, and cholo in Nepal) and a petticoat called ghagra, parkar. It remains fashionable in the Indian subcontinent today.
