The power of a great outfit is impossible to overstate. At its best, fashion has the ability to transform your mood, identity, and, of course, your look. It can be fun, refreshing, and purposeful. But as with anything one does on a daily basis, it's easy to fall into a fashion rut, feeling stale and drab no matter what you put on. If you have a closet full of clothes but not a single thing to wear, perhaps you just need some inspiration. We looked to some of the most iconic designers and couturiers for their thoughts on dressing in style.

A woman with dark hair and sunglasses stands in profile, facing left. She is wearing a light brown saree with a subtle pattern of small white and gold motifs. The saree has a wide red border with a large, repeating circular pattern in gold and red. She is also wearing a red blouse, a necklace with a large red pendant, several bangles, and a ring. She is standing on a polished, patterned floor in front of a traditional Thai temple with ornate golden carvings and a red roof. A black lamp post with white globe lights is visible to the left.

GOOD TIMES

TISSUE SILK

In the 21st century the style trends of the fashion industry dominate the world more than they ever did, and control not only the way people saree but also trends in home ware design, makeup fashion and people's overall attitudes. In the 60s flower power did not only mean flares and tunics, it summed up the whole attitude of a generation, and this is even more prominent today.
