A woman with dark hair is wearing a black lace eye mask and a black hat. She is dressed in a purple silk dress with large white and yellow floral patterns. She is standing next to a white car in a park-like setting with trees and a street lamp in the background.

Style is always in fashion.

A variation of the process exists in which the silk worms are allowed to leave before the cocoons are soaked in boiling water to soften the silk, and then the fibers are reeled. Single shelled, oval-shaped cocoons are collected and then boiled to extract the silk yarn. Boiling is a very important part in the manufacturing of silk.
